

Intoxicating

Definition of intoxicating
(adjective) in English:

Exciting/exhilarating/likely to cause
some to lose control

Etymology:

The study of the origin (beginning) of words

Intoxicating (in-tocs-icating) has origins in:

- ❖ late Middle English (in the sense ‘poison’):
- ❖ from medieval Latin intoxicare meaning ‘to poison’.

Exhilarating

Electrifying

Invigorating

Thrilling

These words are synonyms for intoxicating...

1. She found the rides at the amusement park completely intoxicating. She loved the speed and the recklessness of them.
2. The crowd were intoxicated with the music as it pumped through their veins.
3. Alcohol is an intoxicating substance and should be respected.

In sentences...

Use the word intoxicating as many times as possible throughout the week and you could receive house points every time!

This can be verbally, in your written work or even when you hear an adult around the school using it.

