Notes Why this topic is important...	Many Year 7 students arrive with little or no knowledge of French, nor French phonics given that most primary teachers are not MFL specialists. It is important that students learn the difference between pronunciation of French and English words and understand the risk of mispronouncing easily recognisable words. Word order in French is very different and a fundamental grammatical skill that is needed in order to build up more complex sentences.	This section enables students to build on the previous unit in order to consolidate use of opinions with justification and continues to extend knowledge of vocabulary and continued focus on nasal sounds, silent letters and liaison.	This enables students to extend their responses with subordinate clauses and develops their understanding of verbs with prepositions. The topic enables students to refer to other people's opinions. The topic enables students to link places in town and a variety of activities that can be done there. Students learn about the use of possessive adjectives and their formation according to the noun.	This topic enables students to use 'avoir' and 'être' to describe themselves and other people both in physical appearance and personality. This topic introduces students to a variety of complex structures (conditional tense, perfect tense and the superative). This topic enables students to develop confidence in speaking from memory. This topic enables students to accurately use a variety of different adjectives.
